

Phase V

Heliosphere Detection and Tracking Network

Understanding of all the threats which exist in our region of space is important for our survivability. This would be a multi-generational Project which would utilize the bounty of asteroids to grow and develop a network which will continue our Society's proud history of protecting ourselves from solar and galactic threats.